

The Cypriot law firm Stelios Amerikanos & Co LLC organized on 17 February 2020 its first international conference for the year in Tel Aviv in Israel. The conference provided a first-hand opportunity to the participants to explore the current regulatory and tax framework in both Cyprus and Greece as regards business, real estate and tourism.

More than 100 participants, including lawyers, investors, executive directors and financial officers, ascertained the growing developments that take place in both countries, which render Cyprus and Greece among the top business and investment destinations for Israelis.

By utilizing its extensive legal and tax advisory experience in those sectors, Stelios Amerikanos & Co LLC offered a holistic view to the participants of the key advantages and benefits of Cyprus and Greece. All speakers addressed the importance of the regulatory stability, in conditions of persistent economic growth, while directors and representatives of some of the most prestigious Israeli corporations shared their experience having already invested in both countries.